

WV WOA

Managing Forests for Everyone's Future

Field tours of family forests give members a chance to gather good ideas.

Members teach other members about their personal experiences with forest and wildlife management.

A Managed Forest Provides:

- ◆ Timber and wood fiber for today and for future generations.
- ◆ Diversity of wildlife habitat.
- ◆ Clean water.
- ◆ Soil conservation.
- ◆ Recreational opportunities.
- ◆ A healthy forest.
- ◆ Employment opportunities.
- ◆ Income for forest owners.

A Managed Forest Means:

- ◆ Responsible woodland ownership.

Membership Information

Background:

The Woodland Owner's Association of West Virginia, Inc. (WOA) is a nonprofit membership organization controlled exclusively by independent West Virginia woodland owners.

The Association is open to anyone interested in forest and wildlife management.

WOA's primary goal is to help West Virginia forestland owners maintain a healthy, productive, and beautiful forest.

We achieve this goal through:

- ◆ Education
- ◆ Lobbying
- ◆ Cooperation
- ◆ Communication
- ◆ Assistance

Members share ideas about solving problems.

WOA workshops are a good way to meet others and learn ways to achieve your management priorities.

United We Stand:

West Virginia is the 2nd most densely forested state with 78% of its land covered in forest. About 80% of this forestland is owned by 270,000 individuals as family forests and other private holdings. That translates into a lot of voting power. It also translates into an ability to help each other get the best from our woodlands.

WV WOA is an affiliate member of the National Woodland Owners Association.

Purpose:

WOA Provides networking among landowners and natural resources professionals.

WOA Promotes sustainable forestry.

WOA Provides communication and encourages cooperation.

WOA Works to assure the rights of private landowners.

WOA Advances the skills of West Virginia woodland owners.
